State Hospital defeated Voluntown Saturday in one of the best and most exciting pitcher battles seen here this season. The game was featured by sensational catches and throwing for both teams. DAVIS TENNIS CUP

GOES TO AUSTRALIA.

McLoughlin, in Wonderful Form, Beats Wilding in Four Sets, But Williams Easy for Brookes.

Fought for through many brilliant contests by half a dozen nations of the world this year the Davis cup, emblematic of all that is best in the game of tennis, has been won by the United States. The gallant pair from far off Australasia, which went through the vigorous campaign, bowled out by the Americans, were defeated before it had the right to challenge the holders, once more swept the opposition before them and the "Yankees" went down to defeat Saturday on the courts of the West Side Tennis club at Forest Hill.

There was little hope before the first contest started that the trophy would remain in this country another year. Nearly everyone expected that Maurice E. McLoughlin would be able to beat the redoubtable Arthur F. Wilding, but few entertained the slightest glimmer of anticipation that R. Norris Williams, 20, would be able to triumph over the 25-year-old Australian.

So it came to pass. McLoughlin did what was expected of him. He beat Wilding in a four set match, a score of 6-2, 6-2, 6-2, and Williams fell before the Australasian captain, Norman E. Brookes, 0-1, 6-2, 8-10, 6-3.

Now, so the world was told, the crown of the masters of the court, and even when it was all settled, when it was known that another international tennis contest would be played, the United States was remembered by the fans for many a long year to come. He came as close to perfection as any man probably ever will. His kills from overhead smashed his service ace that sent the dust up in little spurts like a rifle bullet hitting the dirt, his wonderful place shots all combined to keep the spectators on edge.

The gleam of consolation, however, was found in the fact that Maurice McLoughlin of these United States stands out as the champion of the world in singles, for he has beaten the best men who are agreed upon as the best next to him. Last year Wilding beat him in the all comers in England, but Saturday McLoughlin had sweet revenge.

YALE STARTS FOOTBALL

WORK ON SEPT. 8.

Coach Hinkley Will Have a Squad at Madison for Drill—Open Practice favored.

Yale's preliminary football work will begin Sept. 8, when a small squad of mostly backfield players will be gathered at Madison. Head Coach Frank Hinkley will meet about 25 candidates there and will drill them twice daily. Capt. Nelson Talbot will be present, but the full staff of resident coaches is not expected to report until after the players are called together at Yale field.

Hinkley hopes to be able to introduce an innovation in the shape of open practice throughout the season. His policy includes keeping the gates of Yale field open for the public, and the team so thoroughly drilled by simple football that it will be superior to an eleven trained in complicated formations.

CRANKER TOO MUCH FOR THE SACHEMS

New London Independents Proved Too Fast—Score 13-7.

The Sachems ran up against a snag Sunday when they played against the New London Independents at the Falls. The score was 13 to 7. Cranker, a former Sachem man pitching for the Whalers had too much stuff on the ball and the Indians were unable to see the ball. Bill Austin pitched tip top ball but was not tight in the pinches. The visitors played sensational ball and were in the game from the start to finish.

The Sachems management assures the fans that they will be real soon. The game next Sunday when both teams meet again on the Sachem grounds.

From all reports the Stars are out for the rest of New England and they will get it.

NEW FOOTBALL RULES SEND COACHES TO BENCH.
Field Judge Comes Back to Power—Penalties Defined for Roughness of Play.

The 1914 football season will soon be here. Colleges have already sent out recruiting notices to their gridiron warriors instructing them as to the early training plans.

And with the training come the new rules. For 1914 football will be different from the 1913 article. The National rules committee which met last February made some of the most radical shifts since the abolition of the old mass play.

But few folk will ever see the coaches this year. The rules committee has forced the tutors to remain on the bench. No longer will they be able to slip a little lingo to the captain when things are going against the Picked.

For the rule makers decided that the coach did to much "butting in" and the privilege of waking the side lines has been withdrawn. No one outside the officials will be allowed on the sidelines in the future.

The field judge, who formerly had so much work to do only to have his position abolished last year, has again returned to power. Many
